An Illinois editor defines a philanthropist as a zealous person bent on doing the greatest possible good to the greatest possible number with the greatest possible amount of other people's money.

CHORUS OF HUSBANDS.

The bonnets that bloom in the spring, Tra-la!
The blossoms now in the merry summer; And we dolefully groan as we sing, Tra-la!
At the thought of the outlay they bring, Tra-la!
But we know it's no use to decline, And that's what we mean when in chorus we sing, Tra-la!

'Oh, confound the young lads that bloom in the spring! Tra-la-la-la-la! Tra-la!

The bonnets that bloom in the spring, Tra-la!

The bonnets that bloom in the spring, Tra-la!
Are exhibited now in the case, And she wants a $10 wing.
A most unattractive old thing, Tra-la!
And she says you're real mean, and a hateful If you don't buy the bonnet that blooms in the spring! Tra-la-la-la-la! Tra-la!

Oh, we do with there weren't any spring! — Somerville Journal.

A MOUNTAIN TRAGEDY.

Crippled Bill's Little Kate Dying for a False Lover.

It was in one of these caverns that Crippled Bill and the Alfrey boys carried the bodies of their dead men to the lumbermen on the river and divided among themselves the profits. The gang had numerous encounters with the revenue officers, and one after another of the Alfreys were killed until only Dick remained. There were warrants out for his arrest charging him with killing a revenue officer and with illicit distilling. Armed with his long squirrel rifle he roamed through the mountains and frequently visited the towns, boasting that he would kill the first man who made a warlike movement toward him. He spent his money freely and had hundreds of friends scattered about the country, who warned him whenever a marshal's posse approached.

In 1880, while visiting his father's house on the Licking river road, a party of revenue officers rode up and surrounded the house, keeping him at a respectful distance, for they knew that Dick was a dead shot and none of them wanted to make martyrs of themselves. Every door and window of the house was barricaded and when the marshal's men cautiously approached Dick's voice was heard ordering them to halt.

"Ye all dasset make a rush, for I'll kill a half dozen uv ye, ye afore ye git hyar. The ole man's well purvied with rashes, an' I kin stand ye off fur a month. Dad an' I'll take turns standin' guard, an' we'll keep it up on yur an' day."

The marshal's party, after consulting among themselves, mounted their horses and rode away, and Dick went back to his mountain lair to distill more whisky. Crippled Bill Elliott was the father of the two sons of Alfrey, and when only Dick remained to carry on the business he and the old man shared the profits of the still equally. Crippled Bill saved his money to spend it liberally on Little Kate, whom he decked in the handsomest gowns that could be purchased at the crossroads store. She was of finer clay than he, and from making occasional visits to Morehead and Liberty, and since as far down the country as Mount Sterling, a new and higher life was opened up to her. She kept her secret lodgings to herself and never divulged the hiding-place of the still. In the early summer of 1884 Little Kate celebrated her seventeenth birthday. She was a daughter of the mountains—bright-eyed, curly-haired, fresh-faced, with rounded limbs and a good digestion, and able to shoot a rifle or ride a horse with the best of the country. A score of men of the young mountaineers endeavored, in their homely fashion, to make Katya their sweetheart, but she repelled them all. One hot August day, when the little underground stream that supplied the moonshines still in the cave behind the thick laurel bushes on Yocum Cliffs had run dry, and Crippled Bill and his partner had removed their business to a secluded spring branch, where they were busily engaged "making rum." Little Kate came on the ridge porch whose roof overhung the door of her father's cabin, and busily engaged in spinning, singing like a lark meanwhile.

A man, young and strong limbed as a Hercules, wearing clothes whose texture and color were hidden beneath a thick coating of dust, and carrying a light pack on his back, strode up the mountain road westward from the Narrows. He paused for a moment in front of Crippled Bill's cabin, and then, with a furtive glance at the girl on the porch, and then, with a bold step past her, and passing out, she saw Dick, armed with a fierce fire in his eyes, leap over the ginnel, rifle in hand.

Behind him came another armed man, the artist, whose ring she had cast from her in scorn only a few minutes before.

As he reached the rock behind which she crouched Dick Alfrey sprang to shelter behind some bushes, and, wheeling, raised his rifle. The movement was a quick one, but the girl in hiding was quicker. With a warning cry she leaped out into the path, and, as the hunted moonshiner's rifle cracked, the bullet intended for his pursuer's heart pierced the tender bosom of Little Kate. She fell to the rocky ground with a moaning cry and the life-blood dyed her white dress crimson. The man to save her life had sacrificed her own dropped beside her and raised her head. There was a smile upon her lips and her brown eyes opened and looked into his. "I'm dyin' Harry," she gasped, "for you to love—kiss me!" and as their lips met she died.

Crippled Bill had been captured and, when the marshal's posse, following their leader, brought the old man up and his eyes fell upon the dead girl, who, living, was all in all to him, he uttered a stricken cry and rushing forward fell beside her on the stone ground. His bearded cheek was pressed close to her life-blood. When he did not move nor speak they raised him up. He was dead. His great rough heart had burst asunder. They buried them side by side in the little ginnel where Little Kate had waited so long for the lover who had won her heart only to bring from its confiding recesses the secret of Crippled Bill Elliott's moonshine still.

Tall spearmen wave their speckled bayonets high above the heads of the dead and sloughing wind is their only requiem. The grass grows green all around the mounds and the water of the little branch purls at their feet. A thousand vults nod their heads on Kate's grave and shed their sweet perfume on every breeze. They were his favorite flowers. Between the two graves some kind neighborly hand has set up a rude stone on whose face a ruder hand has scratched these words:

"HERE LIES
CRIPPLED BILL ELLIOTT
AND HIS LITTLE KATE."

The new election law has given rise to many discussions in regard to what constitutes a citizen under the law.

Many men who have been voting for years here discovered that they had used the franchise illegally on account of their not having been naturalized.

Several have applied to the courts for their papers who were by birth American citizens. A year ago Crippled Bill mourned for his lost mate as only a strong man can, and when an unlettered mountain preacher pronounced over her grave the last rites that Christians give to their dead he drew himself upon the bound and groaned in agony of spirit.

"Sit ye there, stranger, as long as ye please," answered the girl hospitably.

He availed himself of her permission with thanks, and when he began to talk and his words brought up the pictures she had heretofore seen only in her day dream she stopped her spinning and drawing up her chair beside his listened with eager interest.

They were sitting there together when Crippled Bill babbled up, carrying a brown jug of moonshine whisky in each hand. At sight of the girl, with a glad cry, jumped from the porch and ran down to the stream. She threw her arms around the old man's neck and kissed him, whispering meanwhile that a "stranger man" had come and was "har on the po'ch." The newcomer had bowed down, and when Crippled Bill on his face the young man raised his hat and apologized for the intrusion. in a sensational seduction and damage suit at Lebanon, Tenn., some weeks ago, and who married the girl in the case, Miss Bettie McDaniel, in open court, has left his wife and it is supposed has gone to California.
The bride, who will soon become a mother, has brought suit for divorce.Hon. Polk Laffoon is trying to secure an old war claim amounting to $2,089 for Mr. Ben Harrison, the veteran publisher of the Henderson News. While publishing a paper at Uniontown in 1864 his office was destroyed by Union soldiers, as he claims without just cause or provocation. We would be glad to see him get the claim allowed.Herr Most, the acknowledged leader of Socialists in the United States was arrested in New York Tuesday night. He was pulled out from under a bed in the house of his mistress.
He is under indictment for holding an unlawful assembly and for calling upon his followers to burn, plunder and ravage. He has been a fugitive from justice for about two weeks, but from his hiding place continued to edit his paper, an incensary organ of his gang of murderers.The prompt conviction of Most and his Chicago followers, who are now in jail to answer for wholesale murder, will go far towards nipping Socialism in the bud on this side of the ocean.It begins to look like Hon. M. J.
Durham will be one of the entries in the next gubernatorial race. The Bluegrass press is rapidly uniting in his support, and as he is making an excellent record as Comptroller of the National Treasury the demand for a business man for Governor may make him a formidable candidate. In the meanwhile our own Gen.
Buckner is still in the ring and if he does not make the mistake of running on his military record alone he will be a hard man to beat. In discussing actual and probable candidates we must not forget that Col.
Jones is still "in the hands of his friends."After all the fuss made about purging the poll books of the judicial primary in the Owensboro district, the committee met and did not throw out illegal votes. As the committee was controlled by Judge Little's friends, this looks like the question of illegal votes was a two-sided one and that the nominee was content to let well enough alone. Over this way we do not straddle the issue.
Every illegal vote found on the poll books in our late primary election was thrown out. In Judge Grace's county 48 votes were thrown out because the judges did not certify to the returns. If primary elections are not to be legally conducted they amount to nothing. Each county committee should correct the returns before sending them to the district committee and if this is neglected it should be done by the district committee before the returns are certified to as being correct.

OVER THIRTY KILLED.

A Tornado Causes Death And Destruction.

A terrible wind storm struck Kansas City, Mo., at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning and the loss of life was appalling. The Lathrop School building was unroofed and twelve children were killed in the ruins and many others badly hurt. The court house and two other large buildings were also demolished and as many lives lost.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

Following is a list of the killed and wounded, so far as ascertained at 10 o'clock to-night:

KILLED AT THE SCHOOL-HOUSE.

Josie Mason, aged 12; Bessie In-scoe, 9 years; Nellie Ellis, 11 years; Julia Ramsey, 12 years; Ruth Jamison, 10 years; Edna C. Evans, 11 years;

Robert Sprague, 11 years; L. T.
Moore, Jr., 12 years, son of L. T.
Moore, one of the most prominent business men in the city; Richard Terry 11 years; Mary Lambert, 12 years; May Bishop, 9 years; Edith Patch, Frank Mattison, Mattie Moore, Gardner, Kansas and Jones.

KILLED AT THE OVERALL FACTORY.

Caleb W. West, the new Governor of Utah, has taken an oath to support the constitution of the United States.
If he lives up to this mark he will be certain to find no favor in the eyes of the Mormonites.—Louisville Communical.

KILLED AT SMITH & MOFFATT'S.

Frank P. Smith, proprietor, 32 years; John Kane, coffee roaster, 28; Henry Jackson, colored; Sam Black, 18.

KILLED AT THE COURT HOUSE.

Henry Gaugherty, Deputy Sheriff, 28 years; Wm. Hodges, Deputy Re-cordor, died Tuesday afternoon.

INJURED AT THE SCHOOL.

The report came that cholera has broken out among R. B. Hayes' chickens.
The country should be prepared for this, as it was only a few days ago it was rumored that R.
B. Hayes' chickens had swallowed one J. B. Foraker, of Ohio!—Courtier-Journal.

LATE NEWS.

Charles Latael killed John Seib at Brandenburg, W. Va.

Illinois board of fire underwriters are holding a session at Springfield.

James D. Smith has been elected president of the New York Stock Exchange.

Springfield district conference of the A. M. E. church is in session at Mattoon, Ill.

The steamship Acadia, from Jamaica for Baltimore, is missing and supposed to be lost.

A. Peck, alias Wm. Jones, has been arrested at Toledo, Ill., on charge of bank swindling.

W. A. Waldon, seriously hurt about the head and breast; Maj.
Livermore, hurt about the head;
Lieut. F. H. Young, skull broken;

It is probable that the list will not be completed for a day or two, until the missing ones are accounted for.
Several of the injured were probably carried away without their names being reported.

John Flaherty was struck on the head by a falling flag-staff in West Kansas and was killed.

The total property loss is estimated at $150,000, a portion of which is covered by storm insurance.

STORM AT EVANSVILLE.

At 6:30 o'clock, p. m., the same day Evansville, Ind., was also visited by a severe wind and rain storm which did great damage to property. Many buildings were unroofed and some houses were blown down. A colored man named Daniels was killed by lightning and two unknown men in a skiff were lost in the river.

ACTIVE, PUSHING AND RELIABLE.

lied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing and reliable, by recommending articles with well established merit and such as are popular. Having the agency

KENTUCKY KNOWLEDGE.

There are 75 moonshiners, some of them women, now in the Covington jail.

Wm. Armstrong, a prominent citizen, was run over and killed by a horse at Lexington.

Hugh M. Brooks, alias W. H. Lenox-Maxwell, the principal in the notorious St. Louis "trunk murder" case, is now being tried for the murder of C. Arthur Preller. All this week has been occupied in an effort to secure a jury. The evidence in the case is all circumstantial, but is very strong against the accused.

A disastrous hail-storm is reported from Fulton county, Ark., which did much damage to property. Many of the hailstones are reported as weighing a pound, and, forcing their way through roofs like shot. The track of the storm was half a mile in width and fifteen miles long, the hail covering the ground to the depth of three feet.

Thos. J. Claverius, the young Richmond, Va., lawyer, sentenced to death for drowning his cousin, Fanice Lillian Madison, will surely hang, as the Supreme Court has refused a new trial. He killed the girl after he had ruined her, because she threatened to prosecute him. They both belonged to the F. F. V.

NO WONDER.

In a Detroit court, some of the inability of the world to put up a healthy, vigorous condition by frequent brushing with a brush, not a wire, brush, and an occasional bathing of the head in castile soap and water. An acquaintance of the writer had the following peculiar experience from trying hair-wash in her youth. The young girl had an abundant growth of light brown hair, but, to her regret, it lacked luster. She combed it with a comb and a friend who had fine, glossy hair.

WHAT BEAUTIFUL HAIR YOU HAVE!

"What beautiful hair you have!" she exclaimed, looking admiringly at her friend's shining tresses.

YES, IT'S PRETTY GOOD, WHAT THERE IS
OF IT.

"Yes, it's pretty good, what there is of it," was the reply, "but I wish it were thick like yours."

"Oh dear, I have hair enough, but it's dead-looking! I'd give anything if it were only dark and glossy like yours.

"Yes, I have hair enough, but it's dead-looking! I'd give anything if it were only dark and glossy like yours.

"Well often," said the friend.

"Once in while I put on Dash's Invigorator." That's the name of a new and interesting hair tonic.

"I've got a few hairs left, but I made an application of the new remedy, and for a week she kept up this nightly application, wetting her hair and brushing it in. To her delight, her hair began to grow darker and, she thought, more glossy. She also observed that her hair brush and comb gathered more hair than usual when she used them.
Feeling of her hair, she saw that it was covered a bald spot, about the size of a silver dollar, a dollar, on the back of her head. This was the beginning of a trouble. Her hair fell out of itself, or with a touch, after this. Bald places came here and there, and in less than six weeks the top of her head was quite bare. This was a sorrowful time for the unfortunate girl. Her father laughed, and indulged in a good deal of bantering at her expense; and for a time insisted on her going to school daily. He considered it a just punishment for her not having been a good girl. The hair became quite bald, save for the fringe of hair around her head, she left off going to school, and would not see any one who called. She was filled with grief and chagrin. A lace cap was made and given to her, and for two months, the poor girl appeared before her family in a lace cap. Her father would soon grow out again, but it didn't. He at length bought her a wig, which she was obliged to wear for two years. By that time a short growth of perfectly white hair covered her head. Sixteen years ago, when she was a girl, her hair was still white, about an inch in length.
It has never grown longer. It was a hard experience and naturally afraid of all hair dyes and invig-orators.

POSSITIVELY CURED.

The latest "fad" in male swelledom is clean-shaved faces. The new rule does not affect the dukes, as they never have any whiskers for whiskers.

SOCIALITIES.

Mr. G. W. Metcalfe is in Henderson this week.

Mr. Jno. C. Latham, of New York, is in the city.

Mr. J. S. Parrish, of Clarksville, was in the city this week.

Miss Sarah Green, of Nashville, is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Edwards, have gone to Scelvia, Mo., on a visit.

The Misses Hughes, of Morganfield, are visiting Mrs. John Feland.

Mrs. T. U. Smith, of Madensburg, and Miss Belle Henry, of Casky, were in the city Wednesday.

Six and Six.

The jury in the M. G. Radford case at Cadiz stood six for acquittal and six for manslaughter. After being discharged the whole jury signed a petition for pardon to be forwarded to the Governor. Col. J. W. McPherson, one of Mr. Radford's attorneys, left for Frankfort yesterday, taking the petition and will make a strong effort to secure a pardon for his client. Governor Knott is not in the habit of showing executive clemency to persons charged with murder, either before or after conviction, and it is not at all certain that he will depart from his usual custom in this instance.

Missionary Meeting.

FOR THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:

The next meeting of the sixth "Circle" composed of Salem, Locust Grove, Olivet, Casky and South Union Churches, will be held at South Union the 29th and 30th of May, 1886. Commencing Saturday at 10 o'clock A. M.

After preliminary exercises, reports &c., the following subjects will be discussed:

What are the benefits of the gospel in this life to those living in gospel lands who are not christians?

REV. W. B. WALKER.

"Duty of accompanying our gifts with our prayers. W. B. MASON.

"History and results of Baptist Missions." REV. S. P. FORGY.

"Is the spirit of missions essential to the prosperity of the churches?"

WINSTON HENRY.

How can we increase the missionary spirit among our people?

REV. J. T. BARROW.

Is Christianity progressive?

PROF. AARON WILLIAMS.

Sermon by Rev. J. G. Kendall.

This is our last meeting for this Associational year. Let the churches send large delegations; and see to it that any former deficiency in their quota shall be fully made up. All friends of Missions are respectfully invited to attend and participate in the discussions.

J. D. CLARDY, V. P.

SINKING FORK.

MAY 11, 1886.

ED. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:

Farmers are making much complaint of cut-worms. Army worms also have caused some uneasiness.

Ed. Moore, of Madisonville, will preach in the old store-room at Hiser's next Saturday night.

Alex Anderson, John Boyd, Harry Ferguson, and M. A. Littlefield passed through Sinking Fork to-day.

KELLY'S, KY.

Well, the great railroad strike is ended in a failure and the Knights of Labor have gained naught by it.

And now comes the workmen of other trades striking for only eight hours work per day. The next thing we hear of will be a strike because somebody wants to sit and do nothing all day and draw double wages.

A man cannot do a day's work in eight hours and the idea of ten hours wages for eight hour's work is simply preposterous. It cannot be denied that many laborers are poorly paid, but if a man wants a day's wages let him do a day's work.

Special Examiner Burke, of the pension department, was in this vicinity last week taking evidence in the cases of W. B. Martin and John M. Crunk, pension applicants. Mr.
Burke is a perfect gentleman, of pleasing address and unsurpassed politeness.

There was a moonlight dance at Mr. J. F. Rogers' on last Saturday night. Some of the young men "staid all night till broad daylight and didn't go home till morning."

WEAVER.

The 9th street Presbyterian Sunday school will go to Morrow's woods for a picnic to-morrow.

HERE AND THERE.

Tobacco sold a good deal better this week.

The Garth-Arnold slander suit is being tried at Elkhorn this week.

The Y. M. C. A. cleared about $100 from Dr. Willitt's lecture, after paying him $60.

Cut worms are ruining the young corn. Many fields will have to be planted over.

Crops are said to be growing very finely and the wheat is especially promising.

The ladies of the Methodist church will give a strawberry festival one evening next week.

The Baptist Sunday school will picnic at the Cedar Grove between 7th and 9th streets, to-morrow.

Early strawberries are beginning to get ripe and the most delightful season of the year is close at hand.

The Hopkinsville & Cadiz railroad will has been signed by the Governor, and the act as passed is in the hands of the Board of Directors.

John Theobald, who has been carrying the railroad mail in this city since 1873, has resigned. Wm. Mc-Reynold, col., succeeds him.

A wedding party passed through the city on the 5 o'clock train Wednesday evening. The groom, was Mr.
J. W. McGhee's last week, in honor of Miss Nannie Sasseen of Henderson.

A sealing party caught a trout weighing 6 pounds and 5 ounces out of Hoosier's pond one day this week.

Messrs. H. H. Abernathy and H. W.
Tibbs assume responsibility for the story and vouch for the weight of the fish.

Mrs. Boxley, wife of Mr. John C.
Boxley, of Casky, died Tuesday and was brought to the city Wednesday and interred in the City Cemetery.

The funeral was preached by Rev. L.
W. Welch, of the Christian church, at 2 o'clock p. m.

An old colored woman named Jane Bowling, while walking on the railroad in this city last summer, fell through a culvert and broke her leg.

On Wednesday, through her attorneys, Henry & Payne, she filed suit against the L. & N. Railroad Company for $20,000.

Dr. A. A. Willitts delivered his lecture, "The Model Wife," to a very large audience at the Episcopal church Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. A handsome sum was realized above expenses which will be appropriated to the fund for furnishing the Association's handsome rooms.

A large number of invitations have been issued to the family re-union of the Radford, Metcalfe and other families at Casky Station on the 22nd inst. These re-unions are held annually and are always very pleasant affairs. The coming ones promises to be unusually interesting and a very large attendance is expected.

This is the dullest season with mechanics for five years. There is comparatively little building being done now.

We hope that our people will avail themselves of the opportunity of consulting Dr. Couden, as we hope that they may be induced to visit our country frequently.

Those addicted to opium habit should not fail to see Dr. Couden as he will relieve them of this habit in a very short time.

Send for Dr. Couden's large paper giving any number of cases cured through the country.

Address,

CROFTON, KY.

MAY 12th, 1886.

ED. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:

What reward does the man get who fasts 40 days? There is no fame for him. Science has gained nothing, for he has proven nothing; the only gainer is the boarding house.

Miss Lizzie Rice returned home yesterday and G. W. C. looks home bad since Rice has been taken away from him. Stay at home, young man, you had better die now than later.

Remember the spider and fly story.

Rev. Mr. Gall will preach at Pleasant-view Grove church Saturday night and Sunday at 11 o'clock, May 15th and 16th.

Two dogs showed symptoms of hydrophobia here yesterday by snapping at Mr. Turpin's children. They were hunted out and killed by the police.

Mr. Ed Higgins' mother has moved to our town to live with him.

Miners are on a strike at Empire.
They are demanding an inch and a quarter screen instead of an inch and a half.

Mr. Bryant Rice, of Kirkmansville, who has been working in the tobacco house of J. M. Rice & Co., returned home to-day. We are satisfied that he is yet a charm here for him.

F. M. Sizemore is a happy father.
It's a girl.

Picnic bills read the same as they did last year. Plenty to eat, good order guaranteed, fine string band will furnish music for the occasion, etc.

BUCK.

CANCER! CANCER!

A Rare Opportunity.

DR. COUDEN, the Well-known Specialist in Cancer and Chronic Diseases. Will Visit our City. He will stop at the Phoenix Hotel May 24, 25 and 26.

He can also be consulted at Princeton, Ky., May 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31.

DR. COUDEN, Evansville, Ind., celebrated throughout the south for successful treatment of cancer, with the use of the knife, will shortly visit our town.

He has no equal in the treatment of cancer and chronic diseases. All surgical operations performed by Dr. Couden.

He refers to many cases cured in our vicinity, all of them highly creditable, and of his skill as a physician and surgeon.

DR. COUDEN's new method of relieving and curing piles. His treatments for catarrh have a wide spread reputation.
We would urge everybody to consult him.

All those who are afflicted with any chronic disease to consult him. All those who are afflicted, would do well to send to Dr.
Couden, Ind., for his paper on cancer and diseases and all other diseases treated by him as a physician and surgeon.

He will come prepared to treat female diseases of all characters.
He will arrive in our town promptly upon the following dates: May 24, 25 and 26.

We hope that our people will avail
themselves of the opportunity of consulting Dr. Couden, as we hope that they may be induced to visit our country frequently.

Those addicted to opium habit
should not fail to see Dr. Couden as he will relieve them of this habit in
a very short time.

Send for Dr. Couden's large paper
giving any number of cases cured
through the country.

Address,

DR. COUDEN,
EVANSVILLE, IND.

THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN is heartily in favor of any practicable plan for building turnpikes or another railroad to Hopkinsville. Unless we go at it like we would any other business proposition, it is nonsense to talk about the cost of the turnpike.

Don't plant grape vines less than nine feet apart, at least one yard, in order to allow a wagon to pass easily between the rows.

Don't set out grapevines, blackberry and raspberry plants too shallow, especially if planted in the fall.

Don't set strawberry plants too deep, it will choke the plants and rob them of needed moisture. Beans, potatoes, or most any hard crop will do harm the first year or two, provided the ground is properly fertilized.

Don't stint the soil of a sufficient amount of plant food in the way of stable manure, bone dust, ashes, phosphates, etc.

Don't invest in every kind of fertilizer advertised. Use only standard and reliable brands.

Don't plow or cultivate too deep among small fruits.

Don't let weeds get the start of you.

Keep them in check by constant cultivation.

Never allow the soil to become hard and baked after a rain; keep it well stirred.

Don't allow berries before shipment to get over-ripe. Most varieties of strawberries and raspberries are better picked early dry.

Don't pick blackberries often than every other day.

Don't put all the best berries on the top of the boxes.
